AND FINALLY

In the case where numbers for individual modules are either very high or very low, we reserve the right to either limit numbers (on a first come, first served basis) or to withdraw a module from the timetable.

Finally, in the case of modules that are assessed by examination, you should note that the exam will not necessarily take place in the same time-table slot as that of the lectures. The exam may be at a different time and/or on a different day.
