

At home with the microbes

Presented by Dr Anthony Hilton and the Society for Applied Microbiology

People are increasingly aware of the intimate relationship between microbiology and their daily lives, however few actually consider the microbes living happily in their homes and on their bodies. At this event you can find out what happened when Dr Anthony Hilton took his mobile laboratory to the streets to reveal the hidden world of the microbes.

Date: Wednesday 15th September

Time: 17.00 - 18.00

Location: Room MB461, Aston University

Tickets: £3.00

This event is open to everyone. Book your ticket at www.britishsciencefestival.org or via the Box Office at Aston University from 13th September

This event is part of the British Science Festival in Birmingham from 14-19 September 2010.

THIS EVENT IS OPEN TO THE PUBLIC